Lee,

If we do NPC4D we have to include the Operational Plan. This scope would then include more coordination with both us and the MP&E Engineers and this is why the design fees are higher.

This is also why we are recommending that at this point you move forward with NPC4 and then once you know what the district can take financially you can change direction and go with the more economical option of NPC4D if required.

Please let me know what further questions you have.

Thank you

Just curious - how does NPC 4D end up being more expensive than NPC 4 when NPC is the recommended broader option?
